FARMERS' MEETING.

Large Attendance Yesterday at County Committee's Session

TEREE-YEAR PLEDGES

Loose Tobacco Can Be Delivered to Imperial Tobacco Company

The tobacco raiser was much in evidence yesterday. They were here from all parts of the county and are highly enthusiastic over the outlook for the year 1906.

The meeting was called to order by County Chairman W. W. Radford, while he spoke of some discouragements that have to be met by the association, spoke encouragingly of the future of the organization. He impressed upon the members, who filled nearly every seat in the circuit court room, the absolute need of loyalty to the association, and their duty to use their influence to get every tobacco grower to unite with them in the fight that is before them, though the victory has already been won.

He said that the association has established a market in Europe that cannot be taken from it. They like the way the association's prizes, put up and assort the tobacco better than anything they have ever had before, and they want more of it. Farmers may prize their own tobacco if they prefer it, but he is positive the weed will bring at least a dollar more money if they will turn it over to the prizees contracted with by the committee for this county.

He said that the association now has tobacco pledged to control the market and higher prices will be obtained for the next crop.

One of the main points brought out by Chairman Radford was that the members have the right to sell their tobacco loose and deliver it to the Imperial Tobacco Company in this city. When a member wants to sell his tobacco loose all he has to do is to notify Chairman Radford and he will furnish a man to go with the representative of the Imperial and they will go to the farmer's barn and agree as to price. The trade is closed and delivery is in order.

As to lugs, Mr. Radford says the Association has a positive contract for every pound of lugs that the members may raise, and at prices that will be far in advance of anything they have received for lugs for a long time.

Dr. D. A. Amoss, of Caldwell county, was present, and at the request of Mr. Radford addressed the meeting. Mr. Amoss gave a brief history of the Association in his county. Its discouragements are due to the fact that to the fact the enemies are persistent in their efforts to break up the organization and circulate all kinds of stories for the purpose. He has been working for twelve months and is determined to fight to the finish.

Pledges were asked for the 1906 crop, and it was made known that the pledge was to be for three years. It was expected that every farmer in the room would pledge himself, but our forms went to press too early to permit our giving the number of signatures.

IT IS UP TO THE PEOPLE.

Hopkinsville Can Have a $200,000 Cotton Mill If She Will.

7 PER CENT GUARANTEE

An Enterprise That Will Give Employment to 200 People.

What promises to be of supreme importance to the city has manifested itself since our last edition, though without going into details, we could have enlightened our readers in Saturday's edition had we not been under a pledge to "keep dark" until the light was turned on Friday night.

Mr. J. C. Clair, connected with the Illinois Central Railroad system, as stated in our Saturday's issue, was in the city at the request of our most progressive citizens to look over the city and confer with our citizens as to what inducements would be offered the projectors to locate a large cotton mill here.

The Commercial Club, true to the purpose of the organization, was only too glad to make its initial move for the development of Greater Hopkinsville, and in conjunction with the gentlemen who invited Mr. Clair and Mr. H. H. Homer, of Boston, to come here and look over the territory and feel the public pulse, encouraged by the local Elks in allowing the use of their home for the conference, stepped to the front and showed that it is earnest and determined to do what it can in inducing "outsiders" to come here and invest their capital.

Without trying to exploit something that might be without merit, but only to give our people a chance to help themselves, Mr. Clair, who is a logical reasoner and practical business man combined, had a fact-to-face talk with the more progressive element of our business men and citizens. He was here for business and was talking to business men. He has no idea of deceiving the unwary or anyone else.

To be brief, the substance of Messrs. Clair and Homer's proposition to our city is this: A cotton mill worth $200,000 or more will be located here if the people will take $80,000 of the capital stock. Eastern capitalists to take the other $120,000. Seven per cent. annual dividend will be guaranteed on the investment. There will be five directors, three to be chosen by the Eastern capitalists and two by the local. This is the offer and simple enough for anyone to understand.

The question has been asked, why will an Eastern company that can guarantee such a dividend want our people to take some of the stock? A very pertinent question, surely. This question has been freely discussed, and we leave our readers to make their own answers.

The question has been asked, also, "Why should any company or corporation come here for business without we have something to offer them?" Make your own answer.

Question 3. "Can our people afford to put up $80,000 of their money into the hands of unknown men who will have entire control of it for all time or until it goes into the hands of a receiver?"

Question 4. "Why should not these gentlemen imitate the example of the Imperial Tobacco Co. and plunk up the cash for their industry, and not call on our people for aid?" That question is with our readers.

We do not propose to answer these questions, for we do not intend to influence any one, were it possible, to put his money in anything that might prove to be a sink-hole without bottom that might go into the hands of a receiver in a few years. We much prefer to tell what "other men say," and when the "I-told-you-so" calls he will have no grievance against us.

Some of our people say that this mill, if secured, will be only one of many other great things we are to have when the street cars are running and the belt-line road is built. It will give employment to 200 white people, whereas every recent improvement has more particularly benefited the colored population and our future increase in population should be white.

Why should men loan their money at 6 per cent. when they are assured

If our own people have not the money to start great enterprises, how can they ever get them if they do not offer some other inducement other than exemption from city taxes for five years?

Why should an inland town be selected for Eastern industries when there are so many other towns in the South with both railroads and river to furnish low rates on raw material?

Here are some assertions that have been made:

Hopkinsville's proximity to exhaustless coal fields, with timber of all kinds near at hand, should attract capital.

The I. C. is desirous of taking the city into partnership and will give the cotton mills the lowest freight rate in existence anywhere in the United States.

A reduction in rates for raw material coming in and the product of the mills going out will eventually bring about a reduction in all freight rates.

Of course Hopkinsville and Christian county can no more consume the product of the mills than they can the output of the canning factory, our cigar and tobacco factories, the many things manufactured by the greatest or all our industries the Forbes Manufacturing Co.; the laundry is not, by a long way, the least, furnished by the city and county, to say nothing of the trade that comes to our merchants from other towns and counties.

None of the products would be sold here, but would find their way into the large cities along the lines of the I. C., going into the hands of jobbers, then they would be shipped back here to the retailers.

The I. C. wants to haul all the freight it can get from Hopkinsville to any place it may be ordered, then why should it not give low freight rates?

Henderson has a large cotton mill and sells everything it makes, and is now putting in additional machinery, a stock "cannot be bought for love or money." Saturday it was worth $1.40.

Mayfield has a woolen mill, Paducah several large factories—all making money. What does Hopkinsville need more than factories and mills?

What do the farmers raise tobacco for? It is not consumed here, but is sent all over the world.

The cotton mills are gradually being moved from the East to the South on account of strikes and many other troubles, and the owners of the mills want to manufacture cotton fabrics where the raw material is raised or near the fields.

The mills would not only bring in fifty skilled workmen from the East, but would educate in a few years hundreds of our young men in an entirely new business, besides giving employment to hundreds of young women who can not obtain employment in the stores, millinery establishments, offices or any other department of business. Many of them can't marry because their sweethearts are unable to obtain employment remunerative enough to support them. So both young men and maidens are just simply existing.

A certain store about a month ago advertised for 50 lady clerks. Three times that many applied for positions. Whereas if we had factories where women are employed they could find regular employment at far better wages.

There is an old adage that says, "There are always two sides to every question." We have endeavored to give the opinions of men on both sides. While standing pat on our determination not to be the tool of any clique or ring of grafters, but always on the side of the people, we feel constrained to let our readers and their friends decide for themselves as to whether they will encourage the proposed enterprise by taking stock in it, or continue, Misawber-like, to longer "wait for something to turn up" before they get into the swim.

A CRUEL PROFESSION

THAT OF TRAPPER INFLECTS PROLONGED SUFFERING.

Professional Worker Goes Over Large Territory and Often Torture Individual Trap Often Visit of Captured Creature.

Recently it was telling the story of a trapper who had accidentally stepped into a bear trap, and it was disconcerted at the point where the man had faintly someone with cool and hunger and the army he had suffered. By the merest chance, he was found, soon after daylight the next morning, buried under the snow, and his end was which the strong wind had cleared and left as the one mark to indicate where he lay.

At first it was thought that he was dead, but after he had been taken out of the trap, some signs of life were found, and his rescuers carried him back to camp, and worked over him until a doctor was brought to the place. They saved his life, but he lost the leg which had been in the trap, besides several fingers and toes which had been broken and mangled and they had to be amputated. In short, it was but the wreck of a man who finally left the camp to be supported by charity for the rest of his life. But his experience had done one good thing for him; it had softened his heart towards the creatures of the woods. He knew what it was to lie in a steel trap all night, and he spoke of trapping with a shudder.

"If the public thoroughly understood the means of the cruelty which attends the trapping of wild animals, there'd be mighty few fur worn," he once said to me, and he added: "No decent woman, nor man, either, for that matter, would order a garment which it was known could only be procured by the infliction of brutal cruelty; no one has the right to call for such furled garments, for the part of a living creature, except perhaps in a case of life and death."

I spoke last week of trappers who did not sell business, and who were just out to visit their traps one day. A professional trapper, who set lines of hundreds of traps, covering many miles of territory, very often cannot find them more than once a week. Knowing what a captured animal may suffer in one night, try to imagine the desperate strain of a creature which must remain in the trap until it dies. And they do not do quickly or easily as a rule, those hard, vigorous people of the woods. When I see people wearing furs, I sometimes wish that they must see some of the sights which anyone may see by traveling with a trapper for a week. When they see a few of the horrors of the life of the trapper, lying in the clutch of steel traps with limbs torn, stretched or broken, and with their innocent faces distorted with pain with hatred for the creature who has been the cause of their suffering, I wonder how many of them would care to adorn themselves with garments which have thus been paid for in the misery of others.

Few people seem to know the extent of the trap and the some time in this country alone. There are thousands of men engaged in the thousands of men who, for a living put to the torture from a few dozen to several hundred animals during the cold season of every year. The misdeeds of these men are very inhuman, many of them barely able to read and write, their chief literature consisting of one or more of the numerous papers and magazines devoted to trapping and the fur trade in general. Most of them are not over-sensitive when they take up the means of their trade, but they are engaged in cruel acts for profit, they come to have not the slightest regard for the feelings of the animals they capture and will stop at nothing to get them. They mean to starve them to be sure, they do often arrange their traps for such animals as muskrats, mink and otter in such a way that when they venture seek safety by plunging into the water, they are unable to regain the bank, and are drowned. But this comparatively merciful arrangement is not made in the interest of the animal, but to prevent them from escaping by twisting or chewing off their legs.

Thanks to the Audubon society and to many individual citizens, the trade in the plumage of American birds has been greatly curtailed within the last few years, let us hope that as the object of this cruel trade, the one being made to include the protection of four-footed beasts as well as birds, some persistent effort will be made to save from the torture of the damned the millions of innocent creatures which are every year trapped to supply the demands of the fur trade.

GROWTH OF ESPERANTO.

The New Language Gaining Hold in Great Britain.—What Linguists Say.

Esperanto continues to spread at a rapid rate throughout the United Kingdom of Great Britain. It is the boast of the advocates of the new universal language that it is already possible for a stranger, no matter what his nationality, to travel in almost any part of Great Britain and find students of Esperanto and be himself understood.

Just by way of illustration of the hold which the language is gaining on the empire two incidents, which happened in Cambridge, will be mentioned. One of these incidents concerns the university.

Mr. Oscar Browning has just delivered a lecture upon Esperanto at the university. It was listened to by a huge audience, and although Mr. Browning declared that it was his twenty-eighth lecture, each time upon a different language, he considered that it was more useful than any of the lectures which preceded it.

Dr. G. Cunningham, an Esperanto enthusiast, announces that he has succeeded in making arrangements for the instruction in Esperanto of the local police in the town of Cambridge.

PRODUCTION OF PLATINUM.

Largest Producers Come from Russia—Gain in the United States Yield of 1904.

The war between Russia and Japan was probably responsible for the fact that the output of platinum in the United States increased from 110 ounces in 1903, valued at $2,188, to 200 ounces, valued at $4,100, in 1904. Owing to anxiety in regard to the fact of the platinum industry in Russia, the price of platinum rose about ten per cent, during 1904, reaching the jeweler's "centur Weekly."

"It should not be understood," says Dr. David T. Day, of the United States geological survey, "that the slight rise of ten per cent, in the price of platinum would serve as any great stimulus to the placer gold miners of the west who furnish the platinum products of the United States. For these miners are comparatively indifferent to a slight change in price."

"The scarcity of platinum and the consequent rise in price, however, led to much energy on the part of eastern smelters of platinum in urging upon the placer miners of the west the advisability of saving platinum in cleaning up the hydraulic mines. The increase thus effected is interesting as showing what is possible in the United States in the future."

In the opinion of Dr. Day, the outlook for improved production for the year 1905 is good, because of the investigation undertaken by the geological survey of the black sands of the Pacific slope and of the increased knowledge thus furnished to the miners in regard to the value of the platinum and to simple means of saving it.

The world's supply of platinum for the year amounted to about 300 kilograms, or 9,625 troy ounces, from South America, and 8,000 kilograms, or 9,375 troy ounces, from Russia. All the American platinum came from California and Oregon, inasmuch as operations have been suspended in the flammable copper mine, Wyoming, which furnished some platinum the year before. The imports of platinum into the United States during 1905 showed a decline of more than $800,000, due to European control of the supply.

SOLOMON'S MINES THEORY

Interesting Investigations in Southern Rhodesia Before British Association.

If the conclusions as to the origin and history of the mysterious ruins in Rhodesia put before the British association at Bulawayo by Mr. Randall MacIver are correct, they are not relics of ancient Egypt, and we must seek elsewhere for the region whence King Solomon procured his stores of gold and precious stones. Mr. MacIver went to Rhodesia last April, under the auspices of the association and the Rhodes trustees, and examined minutely the ruins of Inyanga, Nicker's farm (16 miles north of Inyanga), Khumi, Philo, Umtali, Isizwa and Zimabwe.

After careful investigation he has decided that none of the ruins in southern Rhodesia is older than the fifteenth or sixteenth century, and that they are the handwork of African natives of the negro or negrooid race under the dynasty known by the collective name of Monomotapa. The bases of these conclusions were formed on the following data:

The buildings are essentially of a native kind of type common to-day; nearly all retain some original wooden stakes embedded in the walls; there is no trace of inscription on any of the ruins; stone and iron implements were found together; neither the buildings nor the other articles found show traces of early oriental or European influence; finally, the discovery of pieces of blue and white Nankin cloths and other articles of medieval manufacture in the lowest parts of the foundations prove that such commodities were the object of barter before the buildings were erected.

Mr. MacIver maintains that the ruins were originally fortified places, usually including a kopje built in the form of a rough ellipse following mainly the contour of the surrounding country. The so-called slave pits, described as low dwellings, were originally citadels or their strong places, round which concentric circles of walls were built.

OLDEST OF BEAUTY SHOPS

Santa Maria Novella Began to Make Perfumes Over 400 Years Ago in Florence, Italy.

Nearly 400 years ago the convent of Santa Maria Novella, in Florence, began to make perfumes and beauty balms. Its perfume soon became famous through the world and the perfume of Santa Maria Novella was acknowledged to be the first and greatest known. The Medici dukes, popes and princes patronized it and endowed it from time to time. Every new director added some recipes to those already in use and his portrait was hung on the walls of the establishment. The last monk director of the establishment was the first to exhibit in foreign exhibitions, gaining medals wherever he went. When he died the nephew who succeeded him gave extraordinary development to the business. Pope Innocent XI, once gave a recipe to cure burns which is still called "Balsam Innocentiano." The catalogue of this old perfumery contains rhubarb, elixir and "Regina water," all made from herbs cultivated in the convent gardens. There is also a water to cure toothache, which every dentist should have. Some of the convent waters are used in stead of soap to cleanse, soften and whiten the skin. Even the health and beauty of the hair were studied by these old monks, who were doctors, chemists and perfumers combined, and whose study was the perfection and cultivation of human health and beauty. The orris powder of Santa Maria Novella is considered the finest in the world. It is made from the plant grown in the convent gardens and is ground in the convent laboratory. It is used to perfume linen, brush the teeth and to apply to the skin after the bath.

There is a quaint shop in Rome where this famous perfumery is still sold. And this and the shop in Florence are the only places where it can be obtained. It took the monks 400 years to become imbued with the necessary commercial spirit to sell their concoctions outside of the convent, no matter how great the demand.

HONOR HEROIC ALPS GUIDE

Aged Man Who Has Saved Scores of Travelers from Death Given Legion of Honor.

The old hero of the Alps, Leopold Grand, the Alpine guide of the Little St. Bernard, has just been decorated with the order of the Legion of Honor. None deserves the distinction better than he.

Grand lives in a tiny refuge hut on the Little St. Bernard, and has saved the lives of countless travelers who lost their way or were overcome by storms and avalanches while attempting to reach the Swiss Alps.

In 1887 Grand saved the lives of five travelers who were lost in a snow hurricane. His reward for this act was a silver medal. In the following year he received the order of merit from the king of Italy for saving the lives of six Italians. In 1889 he rescued, a French woman, who had been swept away by an avalanche, and was rewarded by a gift of $5.

Some years later Grand and his son went to the rescue of a detachment of Alpine troops that had been overcome by an avalanche. While toiling at the work of rescue Grand saw his son swept away before his eyes and dashed over a precipice.

The poor old father, recognizing that his son was killed, said a prayer and went on with his work of rescuing the soldiers, and after digging them out of the snow, he carried them one by one on his back to his hut, a distance of nearly a mile. He succeeded in saving the lives of three of them, and received from the government $20 as his reward.

Again, in 1900, he rescued a party of Alpine troops from death, and not a year has passed without the heroic old man saving one or more travelers at the risk of his life.

Preserving Eggs.

We have read many articles with reference to keeping eggs fresh for a considerable time after they have been laid. The cold-storage warehouse has received its portion of condemnation, yet it serves the purpose very well in keeping eggs from one season to another. The Agricultural College of Germany makes a report from the experiments of Dr. Strauch, who made many experiments in different ways, beginning in July last, and running over into the beginning of spring. Of the eggs that were wrapped in paper and laid away eighty per cent. spoiled; of those kept in salicylic acid and glycerine eighty per cent. spoiled; preserved with salt, packed in bran and painted with a solution of salicylic acid and glycerine seventy per cent. spoiled; of those that were immersed in boiling water from ten to fifteen seconds, one-half spoiled; of those kept in a solution of alum, also in a solution of salicylic acid, one-half spoiled; of those coated with soluble glass or varnished with gum or grained with bacon, forty per cent. spoiled; of those packed in wood ashes but twenty per cent. spoiled; of those treated with boracic acid and soluble glass and kept in a solution of permanganate of potash, twenty per cent. were lost; those that were coated with vaselin kept good. Those kept in a solution of soluble glass all very good.

All the experiments with the liquid glass have proven very satisfactory in the keeping of eggs. As stated through the columns of this paper before, the only drawback to the solution of soluble glass is the fact that when the eggs are taken from the solution, if not immediately washed perfectly free from the solution in lukewarm water, the solution will dry on the outside of the shell, and when the shell is broken the pieces of fine glass are apt to get mixed with the egg. When this is avoided by careful washing it is a very good medium for preserving eggs.

A Habit to Be Encouraged.

The mother who has acquired the habit of keeping on hand a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, saves herself a great amount of uneasiness and anxiety. Coughs, colds and croup, to which children are susceptible are quickly cured by its use. It counteracts any tendency of a cold to result in pneumonia, and if given it soon as first symptoms of croup appear, it will prevent the attack. This remedy contains nothing injurious and mothers give it to little ones with a feeling of perfect security. Sold by: L. L. Elgin and Anterson & Fowler, The Up-to-Date druggists at Hopkinsville.

Mr. G. Howard Stowe, of Julien, has been appointed notary public by the Governor.

REAL AMERICAN WOMAN.

Decorated German Finds Raw London
in Our Cities, But Unearths New Things in Country.

She lives in a small town in the middle west. Strange to say, the highest praise that I ever heard bestowed on that Central came from a foreigner, a decorated German architect, who had designed a soldier's monument for one of our western capitals, and expressed our patriotic pride for us in public works in several cities, says Elizabeth O. Crompton, in Public Opinion. "When I first went to your country," he said, "I visited only the cities, and there I looked in vain for anything peculiarly American, distinctly democratic, in your social life. I saw only a new version of London, Paris or Berlin, a raw reproduction of the social order of the old world. But when I became acquainted with some of your little towns, there I found a phase of life quite unlike anything we know in Europe, quite superior to any social organism we have yet developed. There your people seemed really to believe that men are created free and equal. The same privileges and opportunities were enjoyed by all. Men of all occupations and professions met on the same social footing. I have seen one of your senators walking along the street in friendly conversation with the man who made his clothes (the architect had no nose for political noses). I have been entertained by ladies who did their own work without fear of losing caste, who discussed art and foreign politics with me without suggesting the blue stocking or the new woman. These communities were often centers of culture and education; each shared his best with his fellows; and all seemed united in the bond of mutual improvement.

"An Englishman once gave me his opinion that town life was the most satisfactory mode of living in America. 'There is too much hurry and worry in your cities,' he said, 'too much hard work and too great isolation on your farms. Only the very rich among you can really enjoy either city life or country life. For the man of moderate means the small town offers the greatest advantages.' A distinguished French woman who had been the guest of one of the professors of an Illinois college wrote in her published impressions of America: 'I found a real Utopia, a woman's paradise, a place where living was simple and natural, where no artificial barriers had been erected, where housekeeping was reduced to its simplest terms. My hostess and her three daughters did most of the work of the house; the one who served us gracefully at the table played the piano with more than an amateur's skill; another chatted fluently to me in French while she made my bed; all three were students in the university from which their father and mother had graduated in the same class.'

BEETLE WHICH HAS A GUN

Little Insect Fires Off Puff After Puff at Intruders and Beats Hasty Retreat Under Its Cover.

"I want you," said an instructor at the University of Pennsylvania, "to see my new beetle. He fires off a gun."

"A trained beetle, eh?"

"No, indeed. This beetle has a natural gun, and fires it of his own accord. There is no training. Watch."

The beetle was a burnished blue, with a red head and red legs. He lay hidden under a stone in his box. The instructor advanced his finger slowly; the beetle waited, watchful and intrepid; the finger almost touched the insect, and then—puff, a cloud of blue smoke shot out, and under cover of this smoke the beetle beat a rapid retreat.

"Isn't that marvelous?" the instructor said. "And the little rascal can emit puff and puff—can fire gun after gun—19 or 20 to the minute. No wonder he is called the bombardier, is it?"

"This bombardier beetle is rare. He has in his body certain glands secreting a liquid, which, on contact with the air, has the curious property of turning into a smoky vapor."

"The vapor," he said, "is his defense against bigger beetles. Hidden under it, he seeks a new retreat."

KEEP THEM LONGER.

Appropos of the editorial opinion expressed in the Gleaner nearly two years ago and recently reproduced that the people of the Second district have been making a serious mistake in limiting the period of service of their congressmen to two or even three terms, the comment of "Savoyard," the well-known Washington correspondent, in a recent issue of the Washington Post, in reviewing the long career of Congressman Bankhead, of Alabama, is timely, and coincides with the views expressed by the Gleaner.

"Savoyard" mentions the fact, which was known to all in the least conversant with such matters, that few members have so ably discharged their assignment of any of the important committees where the real work of congress is practically accomplished, and he also mentions the vast service Mr. Bankhead has been able to render his district and section by reason of the fact that he is a member of the rivers and harbors committee and the committee on public buildings and grounds. He says: "It is a curious thing that constituencies pay so little attention to the advantages that come from desirable committee assignments. If they appreciated the real situation it would take forty years for them to make the changes in the membership of the House of Representatives they now make in a few years. And the whole country, as well as the particular district, would be better served."

Is not this sound reasoning? It is not indisputable? Does it not commend itself to every thoughtful citizen of the Second district?

The fact is obvious that the members of congress from this district

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address, F. J. can command no prestige or exert any real power until he has been in congress long enough to have an opportunity to be recognized in the important committee assignments and to become thoroughly familiar with the workings of congress through the committees.

Coming down to a matter seriously affecting this immediate section of the State, the following comment of "Savoyard" applies with peculiar force. He says:

"Mr. Bankhead is on the committee on rivers and harbors. That committee has wasted money in the past; but it has saved ten times what it lost. I give one case. About 30 years ago Hernando De Soto. Money was elected to congress from Mississippi, and he got an appropriation of $10,000 to improve a little creek, a tributary of the Tombigbee. Men laughed and swore they could jump across it. The $10,000 was expended and money got another and another. When $30,000 had been expended a boat made three trips up the creek and took out 500 bales of cotton each trip. The railroad reduced its rates on cotton from $5 a bale to $1. That county produced 25,000 bales of cotton a year. Thus that community has saved about $100,000 per annum, and that began 22 years ago—all for $30,000."

"I would think that a constituency that has a member on rivers and harbors would hesitate long before it took his seat from him, especially a constituency of a state that is full of rivers; but Kentucky, last year, retired Mr. Kehoe, a member of rivers and harbors, and some years ago she retired Judge Berry, who had been on the committee for years, and had got for Kentucky waters hundreds of thousands of dollars. The state has no representative on the committee this congress, and that notwithstanding Kentucky has more navigable rivers than any other state, when we consider the area of the state."

"Mr. Bankhead is on this committee because of his long service. The Tombigbee river runs through his district, and the improvements made upon it and its tributaries have put millions into the pockets of Alabama planters. North Alabama is going to be the great iron and steel producing section of the union ere the century is half over; but before that transpires the rivers and harbors of Alabama will have to receive the aid that has been given to the rivers of West Pennsylvania and West Virginia. It is fortunate for Alabama that she has a member of the committee on rivers and harbors.

Look at the Second district, which has perhaps the greatest river frontage of any district in the state. With the Old river swamping the borders of Hancock, Davies, Henderson and Union counties and with Great river penetrating the counties of McLean, Hopkins, Webster, Davies and Henderson, representation upon the rivers and harbors committee might mean much to the people of this section. Improvements needed upon these great natural highways of transportation, by which they could be made navigable the year round, would hold in check the tendency of the railroads to exact exorbitant charges from the public and afford real competition in the transportation of our products to market. With the great trend of development in this direction, due to the richness of our section in mineral wealth, it is hard to estimate just what it would be worth if the member of congress from the Second district should be a potent member of this rivers and harbors committee.

In the present member from this district, Mr. Stanley, we have a man of promise. He is in the prime of life, ambitious, able, loyal and true. He has worked his way to the front at the bar at Henderson, which is recognized as one of the strongest in the state. He is recognized at Washington as a man of honesty and solid ability, the material of which useful members of congress are developed.

He is now aspiring to a third term, which will only equal that of one term for our circuit judges and commonwealth attorneys, who are thoroughly familiar with their duties before election. In view of these matters can the people of this district afford to retire Mr. Stanley just at the threshold of a career of usefulness in congress, and send a new and untried man, who will have to spend as much or more time as Mr. Stanley has already been there before he can hope to be as far along the road of congressional knowledge as he?

The people owe nothing to Mr. Stanley. The Gleaner does not argue from that standpoint. But do not the people of this district owe it to themselves to have a member in congress whose position will be more than that of a novelty and is there any prospect at this time of anything better if Stanley should be retired?—Henderson Gleaner.

Judge Tyler's great novel of Southern life, "The K. K. K.", is begun in the National Magazine for February. Strong pictures by M. L. Blumenthal illustrate the text.

"Washington and Lincoln," February's famous sons, are studied in the pithy, epigrammatic style of John McGovern, who considers Washington as "The Ancestor," Lincoln as "The Dictator"—papers in which the republic's founder and its saviour reappear among us in their true characters—our greatest heroes physically as well as intellectually.

DIVIDEND PAYING Oil and Mining Stocks.

Other high grade 6 per cent. guaranteed interest preferred stocks and bonds for sale. OSAGE OIL & MINING CO., Inc., has been brought in during the month as an oil well equal to any in the state and is now a good producer. WELL No. 12, Lease 17, has been drilled and is flowing well. This makes 12 wells independent of No. 13 on lease 67, owned by the four companies, drilled without a single "dry hole."

The four Osage Oil Companies owning the above wells have returned to stock holders during the year in monthly dividends the sum of $24,000, against an actual investment in property and development of approximately $60,000, with a handsome surplus yet remaining in their profit fund for extra dividends, subject to the action of the stockholders at their annual meeting to be held in January.

Without a word of stock the stock of the four companies have been entirely withdrawn from the market. An announcement will probably be made no later than January 15 of the extent of the withdrawal of the stock of the Interstate Osage Petroleum Co., which will begin dividends in January. The same rate as the other four Osage Petroleum Companies. This company's announcement is in evidence already brought in that it has an earning capacity, with development, equal to the four Osage Petroleum Companies, operating in the same territory. It has a surplus in its profit fund of practically $100,000 at the present time available for dividends, no estimate being necessary to secure this stock will have to send in their subscription prior to the date of withdrawal.

The Interstate Osage Petroleum Co. now has in its profit fund approximately $250,000, against an investment in the property and development of some of less than $21,000, which we think is a remarkable record. For large quantities for sale.

SOUSA'S BAND.

The greatest musical treat Hopkinsville has ever had is to be here on Friday night March 2nd. It is useless to say anything of the March King, Sousa, and his band. It is everywhere recognized as the greatest musical organization in the United States. Last summer the band played for a month at Atlantic City, receiving $1,000 per day. There were 75 men in the band and hundreds of thousands people heard them. Manager McPherson deserves the gratitude of our people for bringing Sousa's band here, and no doubt it will be greeted with an audience that will tax the capacity of the Tabernacle.

NEW QUARTERS.

City Bank can See Moving Day Ahead.

The City Bank has received its new furniture and it is being put in place. The bank wants to have a public opening on Feb. 22d if possible, but can not definitely settle on that day as there are still many little things to be looked after. Further notice will be given. An appropriate program is being considered and when the day is fixed everybody will be apprised.

Bargains in Heating Stoves

Owing to the remarkably mild winter, we have in stock more Heating Stoves than we care to carry over to another season. In view of this fact we have decided to cut prices on all grades in order to reduce stock. If you are in the market for a stove it will pay you to see us before you buy.

BREACH OF CONTRACT.
 Is The Allegrtion in Suit for Damages.

The Hopkinsville Canning Company has filed suit against The Chicago Building and Manufacturing Co., for $1,000 damages. It is stated in the petition that by the terms of the contract with the defendant, the latter guaranteed the capacity of the factory to be 20, to 25,000 cans of corn, tomatoes, fruit and vegetables in ten hours, and that said contract was breached. It is alleged that the machinery, in competent hands, failed to come up to the guaranteed capacity, that it will not exceed 10,000 cans, and by reason of the incapacity of the said plant much of the produce during the season of 1905 spoiled and rotted in the receiving rooms and was a total loss. It is further stated in the petition that the defendant failed and refused to furnish a competent and experienced process man to have charge of the plant's canning business during the season 1905, as agreed.

MADAME BERNHARDT
 The Great French Actress
 In Louisville Feb. 19.

Madame Bernhardt and her own incomparable Company from Paris, France, will give a farewell appearance in Louisville Monday Feb. 19, matinee and night, in the Hopkins Theatre. She will play Camille in the afternoon and La Sorciere at night.

The prices will be for both performances $3, $2 and $1. The sale of seats will open at 9 a. m., Feb. 15. Mail orders when accompanied by remittance made payable to Hopkins Theatre Co., with enclosed stamped envelope for reply, will be filled in order of their receipt.

This is the last chance a Kentucky city will ever have to hear the great Bernhardt.

BARNES BRIEFS.

Barnes, Ky., Feb. 9.—Farmers were busy burning plant beds, before the zero weather set in. Many beds in this section have been burned.

Rev. R. E. Hyde, of Hopkinsville, filled his regular appointment at Few Barron Spring church the first Sunday. The congregation was large.

Neville Nixon and family have moved to Hopkins county. Mr. Nixon will engage in mining. Geo. West has moved into the house vacated by Mr. Nixon's family, and will engage in farming.

Nearly all the horses and mules in this section are suffering from distemper of a mild form.

Mrs. Jennie B. West's daughter, Miss Georgia, is quite ill, suffering from whooping cough, and fears are entertained that her lungs are involved. Mrs. West has three other children afflicted with the same disease.

Farmers are far advanced with their work, and considerable fallowing has been done.

Corn is getting scarce in the neighborhood and there is very little for sale.

Mrs. Minnie King has returned from a visit of a week to her sister, Mrs. Bob Almond, and others in Hopkins county.

VINCE WILLIAMSON, JR.

Bright Little Boy Dies
 Scarlet Fever.

Vince Williamson, Jr., the little son of Mr. and Mrs. V. M. Williamson died of scarlet fever Friday night, aged seven years. On account of the contagious nature of the disease, funeral services were not held. The burial took place in Hopewell Cemetery Saturday afternoon.

Mr. Williamson's little girl is ill with the same disease, but was much better yesterday.

Going West.

Mr. Frank Monroe, who came here about 17 years ago from Russellville and has been in the newspaper business in different capacities most of the time, will leave next Saturday for Shawnee, Oklahoma, with the view of making that place his future home. He has accepted a position in the office of the "Shawnee News." Mr. Monroe is an all-round newspaper man, and while his many friends will regret to see him leave us, all will join us in wishing him unbounded success in his new home.

SEED TIME

The experienced farmer has learned that some grains require far different soil than others; some crops need different handling than others. He knows that a great deal depends upon right planting at the right time, and that the soil must be kept enriched. No use of complaining in summer about a mistake made in the spring. Decide before the seed is planted.

The best time to remedy wasting conditions in the human body is before the evil is too deep rooted. At the first evidence of loss of flesh

Scott's Emulsion should be taken immediately. There is nothing that will repair wasted tissue more quickly or replace lost flesh more abundantly than Scott's Emulsion. It nourishes and builds up the body when ordinary foods absolutely fail.

We will send you a sample box.

Be sure that this picture in the form of a label is on the wrapper of every bottle of Emulsion you buy.

About Our HEAVY TEAM AND FARM HARNESS!

We make a specialty of heavy team and farm harness. We believe it is better value than any other similar harness sold in the State, or for that matter in the country.

We make it ourselves from carefully selected stock; every piece of it is sewed with greatest care. It's the stoutest, best wearing, best working harness of the kind made.

The traveling salesmen tell us we ought to get more money for it, but we're satisfied with the price.
